

COUNCIL / MANAGER RELATIONSHIPS

a presentation by pat mcginnis

INTRODUCTION

The council-manager form is the most popular structure of government in the United States among municipalities with populations of 2,500 or more.

MAYOR

Public face of the community. Presides at meetings, facilitates communication among elected officials and assists the governing body in setting priorities and advocating policy decisions. Often is the primary regular contact for the manager to discuss pending issues and policy development.

COUNCIL

Governing body –sets policy, approves the budget and passes laws. Focus on big picture goals and is the final authority on issues of importance. This body hires a professional manager based on education, experience and skill set, not political allegiance.

MANAGER

At-will employee who serves at the pleasure of the City Council; can be terminated for no cause at any time consistent with local laws and employment agreements. Prepares budget, recruits and retains professional staff, offers advice and carries out policies decided by Council.

Generalizations

Active in community life – schools, workplace, faith community, service clubs, veterans groups, sports leagues

Serves as a volunteer on local government boards – Planning Commission, Parks Board, DDA

Takes out papers, asks friends and neighbors sign petitions, and puts their name on the ballot to run for local office

Sacrifices time with family, work, business and other personal endeavors to serve their community

Risks being a target of scorn, sometimes losing good friends or business due to positions taken to improve the community

Volunteer

Chooses to pursue a career in public service as a generalist. Achieves formal education and training/experience in local government management

Sharpens skill set as a communicator, leader, manager, facilitator and collaborator

Active in professional life – MME, ICMA, continuing education, regional economic development or human services groups

Networks with government, business, education, health care, non-profit and other leaders to build trust and support for respective, and usually complementary, missions

Risks being arbitrarily invited to leave a job and a community – at will

Paid

One shared quality:

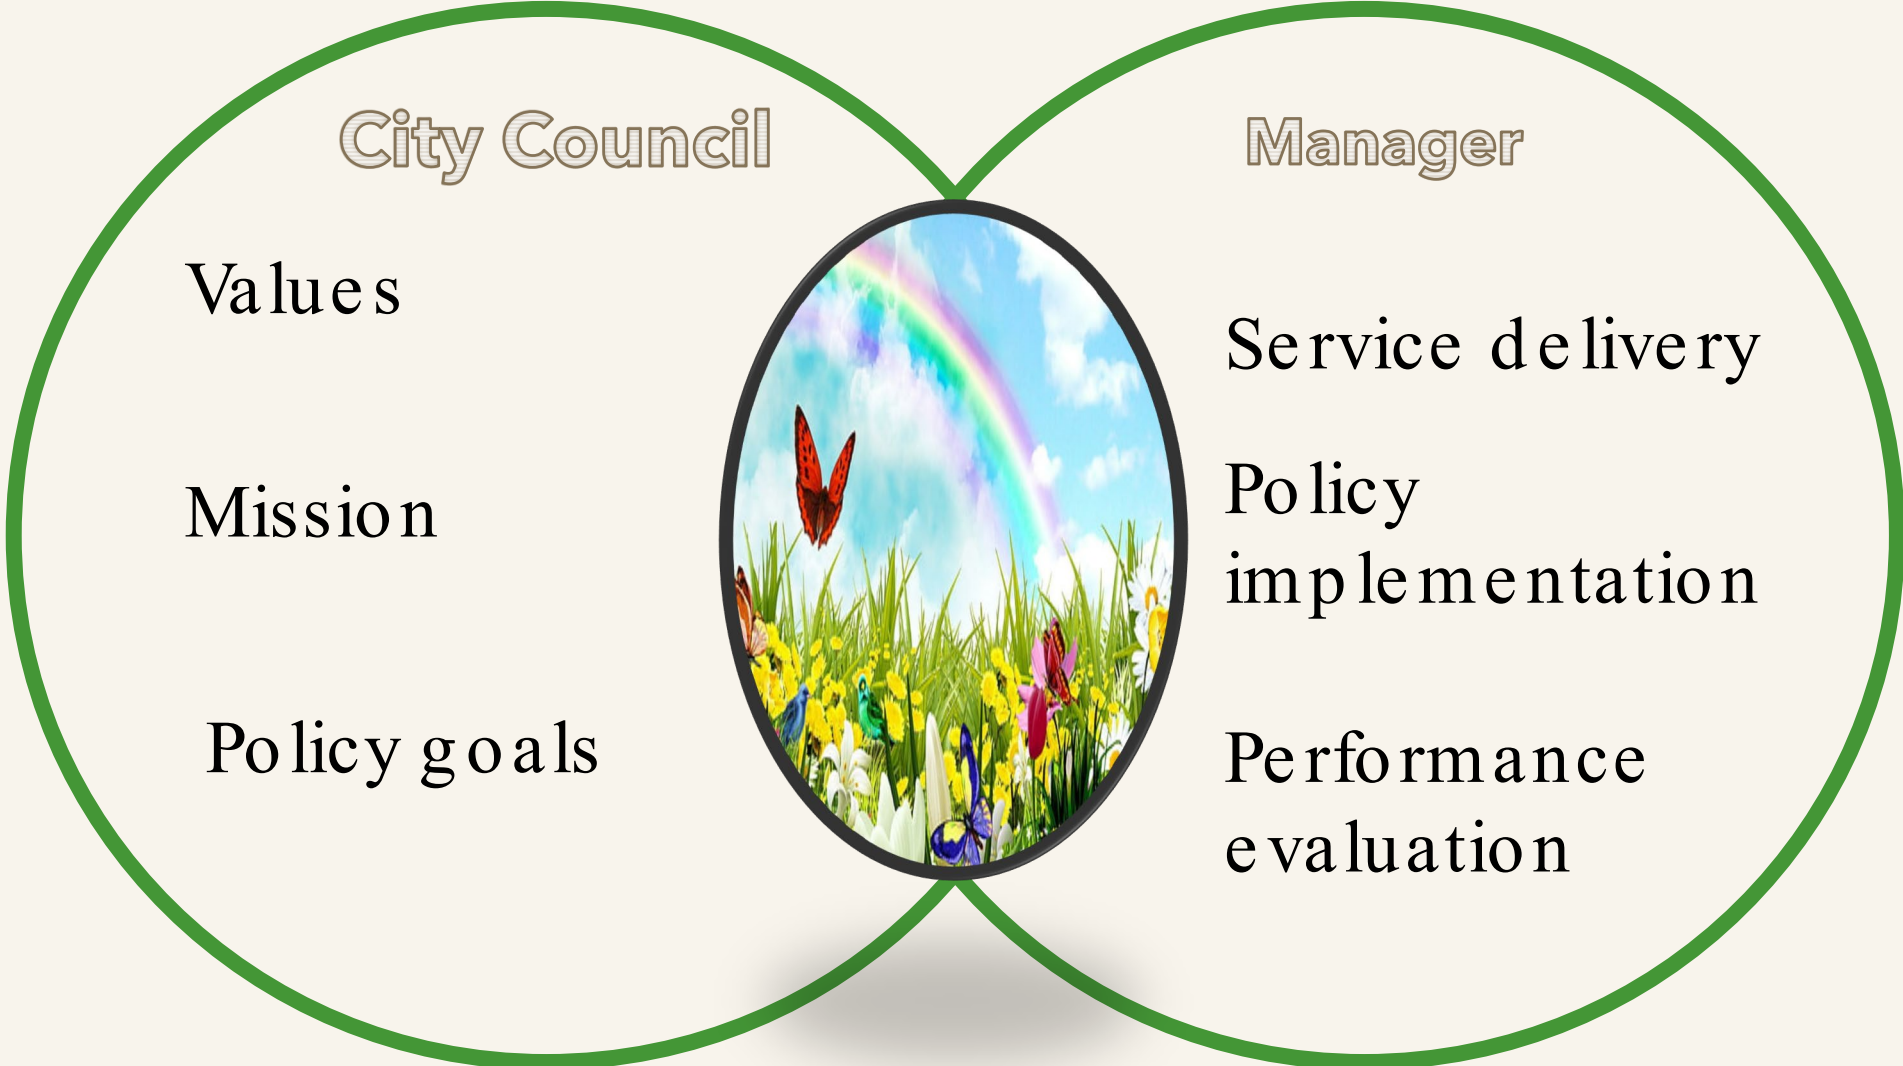

“dedicated to the attainment, through government, of a high level of living for every citizen”
